Richard W. Schwarz Collection
(Collection 157)

Scope and Content

Richard Schwarz was a prominent Seventh-day Adventist historian, teacher, and administrator. He earned a PhD degree from the University of Michigan in 1964 with a dissertation on John H. Kellogg which was later published in several editions and printings. He taught at Emmanuel Missionary College and later Andrews University much of his career. He taught many different history classes but specialized in the history of the Adventist Church. This specialization led to his being asked to prepare a denominational history textbook for college level classes. This book, Light Bearers to the Remnant, was published in 1980. Schwarz also served in administrative posts late in his career including a brief time as acting president of Andrews University in the early 1980s. He retired soon after that time.

The collection includes correspondence, class materials, and topical files. The largest segment relates to his dissertation and subsequent book on Kellogg and on the denominational history textbook. There are also considerable numbers of published and unpublished articles and papers by Schwarz and others on denominational subjects.

Arrangement

Although the Center for Adventist Research processed the collection it has, in most cases, kept the original order of documents as compiled by Richard W. Schwarz himself.

Provenance

The collection was donated to the Center for Adventist Research in several parts over a span of years starting in 1973 and ending in 2005 by Richard W. Schwarz.

Use

All users of this collection will complete the “Application to Use Unpublished Records,” and observe the regulation specified in the “Patron’s Agreement” and “Researcher’s Code of Conduct.” All records in this collection are open and available for research. Suggested citation for this collection:
