Charles MacIvor Collection
(Collection 251)

Scope and Content

According to a letter written by Charles R. MacIvor, he was first associated with John Harvey Kellogg in the sales department of Worthington Foods, Worthington, Ohio, merchandising Kellogg’s foods. Later, he was the Vice-president of the same food company in charge of sales. It was during this time he worked in the Home Office of John H. Kellogg, and had the opportunity of many personal contacts with the doctor.
Kellogg “took a liking” to him and “poured out a wealth of information covering his long career, including his personal life.” Kellogg told him “things he had never before told to Maclvor “inherited” materials from Kellogg “ (Harry J. Weber to Maclvor, Feb 9, 1968, Maclvor’s Letter Collection).

This collection mainly contains Charles R. Maclov’s personal collections of materials relating to John H. Kellogg and the Battle Creek Sanitarium. It includes numerous correspondence, articles, manuscripts, and a large amount of photographs of Kellogg and the Battle Creek Sanitarium. One main feature of this collection is Maclvor’s unfinished book manuscript, The Lord’s Physician, a biography of John H.
Kellogg from the author’s perspective as a personal friend of the doctor.

The sources from which Maclvor gathered materials are mainly the following five locations:
2. Ellen G. White Estate, Washington D. C.
3. Center for Adventist Research, Andrews University, Berrien Spring, Michigan.
5. Charles R. Maclvor’s personal collections.

Unfortunately, due to the complexity of the collection, it is not possible to identify the provenance of each item listed in the collection except a few items noted by Maclvor himself.

Except two original letters written and signed by John H. Kellogg, almost all of the Kellogg letters are type-written copies of the originals, many of which are correspondence between Kellogg and Seventh-Day Adventist leaders such as George I Butler, Steven N. Haskell and D. H. Kress. Great cautions should be given to the proper use of the John H. Kellogg letter collection due to its secondary nature, namely, typewritten copies of the original. Any serious researchers should seek to verify the accuracy of the type-written copies before using them for any scholarly research.
Arrangement

The arrangement of the collection has been done partly by the Center for Adventist Research, and partly by MacIvor himself. The overall structure of the collection is MacIvors, while the finer details were often done by the processor.

Provenance

Charles R. MacIvor’s wife donated this collection to the Andrews University Center for Adventist Research in 2006, apparently not long after Charles’ death.

Use

All users of this collection will complete the “Application to Use Unpublished Records,” and observe the regulation specified in the “Patron’s Agreement” and “Researcher’s Code of Conduct.” All records in this collection are open and available for research. Suggested citation for this collection:
